Links across Cornish speaking families pre 1900 AD: A study

Philippa MILLS

Abstract

Much has been written of specific Cornish language speakers pre 1900 and some study has been given to a few named families or a parish; however, the links between families are woven through time and space by marriage, connections and circumstance.

It is those links by marriage across Cornish speaking families pre 1900 AD I am concerned with in this study. By using examples of families with known Cornish Speakers, we can build a better picture of the larger Cornish speaking community and the connections between them.
